About Kunsthal Rotterdam

Large Cultural Institution

The Kunsthal Rotterdam, founded in 1992 and located on the Westzeedijk, is a prominent cultural institution in the Netherlands, known for its dynamic and surprising programme. With over twenty exhibitions a year, the Kunsthal offers a wide range of cultural experiences, from classical masters to modern art, design, photography, and more. The building itself, an architectural highlight designed by Rem Koolhaas, comprises over 3,300 m² of exhibition space. It offers an adventurous journey through different continents and artistic movements, and presents culture in the broadest sense of the word.

Lots to do

What makes the Kunsthal special is that there are always multiple exhibitions running at the same time, allowing visitors to enjoy a rich diversity of art movements and cultures. The institute is constantly transforming, which ensures an always innovative and fascinating programme. For children there is the KunsthalLab, where they can get creative themselves. In addition, the Kunsthal organises special events such as Friday Night LIVE, which heralds the weekend with art and culture. This combination of unique architecture and a versatile cultural offering makes the Kunsthal a must-visit location in Rotterdam.
